

THE TEST DEVELOPMENT CYCLE

The American Board of Internal Medicine's (ABIM) 20 Exam Committees include practicing doctors, from various regions, practice settings and age ranges.

These volunteer physicians are responsible for creating examinations for Certification and Maintenance of Certification (MOC) in Internal Medicine and its subspecialties.

They play a crucial role in defining their respective disciplines by working with their fellow physicians to create exam content based on relevancy to their practice.

